HERE IS YOUR REMEDY!

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT.

A MOST REMARKABLE CURE OF A BAD LEG, AFTER 35 YEARS' SUFFERING.

Extract of a Letter from Mr. William Chapman, Grocer, St. Mary's Street, Weymouth, dated Nov. 15, 1851.

To Professor Holloway.

SIR,—About thirty years ago, when I was about 18 years of age, I caught a violent cold, which settled in my right leg, and after about three years' suffering, I was induced to have it amputated, as I was then unable to walk, and was deprived of rest at night. I was then in the hospital for about twelve months, but received no benefit, and was discharged as incurable. I then went to work at my trade, which is a shoemaker, and continued so for about 15 years, when I was induced to try Holloway's Pills and Ointment, and after persevering for about three months, I found myself quite restored to health, and have continued so ever since. I have had no return of the disease, and can confidently recommend your Pills and Ointment to all persons afflicted with bad legs, as I am sure they will effect a cure. You are at liberty to make what use you please of this letter, as I am anxious that all persons afflicted with bad legs should know where they can get cured.

(Signed) WILLIAM GAPEN.

A PERSON 70 YEARS OF AGE CURED OF A BAD LEG OF THIRTY YEARS' STANDING.

Copy of a Letter from Mr. W. Wood, Grocer, &c., of Ovenden, Queen's Road, near Halifax, dated May 31, 1851.

To Professor Holloway.

SIR,—I suffered for a period of twenty years from a bad leg, the result of a severe accident I met with at Gas Works, accompanied by several bad symptoms. I had recourse to various remedies without satisfaction, when at length, after trying your Pills and Ointment, I was induced to persevere with them, and was eventually cured, after having used nine pots of Ointment and five boxes of Pills. I am now seventy years of age, and can confidently recommend your Pills and Ointment to all persons afflicted with bad legs, as I am sure they will effect a cure. You are at liberty to make what use you please of this letter, as I am anxious that all persons afflicted with bad legs should know where they can get cured.

(Signed) WILLIAM WOOD.

A DREADFUL BAD BREAST—TWELVE IN ONE!

Extract of a letter from Mr. [illegible], Grocer, &c., Sharat, Kent, dated December 15th, 1850.

To Professor Holloway.

Dear Sir,—My wife has derived great benefit from the use of your Pills and Ointment. She had a bad breast for more than twelve months, during the whole period of which she was confined to her bed. Having tried various remedies without effect, and finding her case becoming worse, I determined to obtain your Pills and Ointment, and therefore gave them a fair trial. Fortunately it was not long before I saw a perfect cure was effected, the result of which was that various other branches of the family have derived benefit from their use. I have strongly recommended them to all my friends.

(Signed) FREDERICK TURNER.

that his colleague on the committee Mr. Tweed, of Taunton, might be allowed to state the arguments in favor of the Bill and the floor was given to Mr. Tweed who is known to our friends at Calais, from a residence of several years among them. Mr. Tweed sketched in a rapid manner, the history of railways in New England, commanding fully the ear of the House, and evidently carrying with him a majority of its members, and pointed out in strong terms the advantage to Boston and Massachusetts, of building up industry, and increasing the population of the peninsular east of Lake Champlain.

He was followed by Mr. Bemis, of Watertown, Mr. Putnam, of Roxbury, Mr. Hayden and Col. Schouler, of Boston, in strong opposition to the Bill, in which the whole railway policy of New England was gone into. One of the speakers said, "This was the last stab, aimed at the bleeding corse of the Vermont Central Railroad," which brought down a hearty laugh from the whole house.

Mr. Wiggin of Boston, an intelligent merchant, acquainted with the trade of Boston, now succeeded in obtaining the floor, and gave a statement showing the value and extent of the trade of Maine, and urged the House to pass the bill and to beware how they despised their very best customer for Massachusetts manufactures.

Henry J. Gardner, Esq., President of the Common Council of Boston, then obtained the floor, and moved in amendment of the 3d section, requiring the road to be built for the same gauge as that from Boston to Portland. He consumed his ten minutes in a most violent tirade against "the dog in the manger policy of Portland, in laying down the broad gauge," &c. The amendment was adopted, and Mr. Earle of Worcester, again addressed the House in support of the bill.

Mr. Simmons of Hanover, treated the bill on the principle before laid down by Mr. Bemis, of Watertown, that the State credit should not be loaned in any case. This brought up Mr. Kellogg of Pittsfield, former Speaker, and a leading whig in the State. He defended the policy of loaning the State credit for the proper purposes, whether the works lay within the Commonwealth, or out of it, if of public utility.

But as he found the eastern portion of the State, especially the city of Boston, opposed to the measure, he was not prepared to force upon them a measure of doubtful expediency.

Mr. Colby, of Boston, son of Gov. Colby, of New Hampshire, an able lawyer, and among the youngest members of the House, made a most able speech in defence of the bill, and declared that the whole opposition was short sighted and illiberal, originating with the agents and friends of the Cunard steamers, who now control the commercial opinions of Boston.

Alderman Kimball, of the Boston Museum, followed in his most humorous and pointed manner, attacking the bill as dangerous to Boston interests, calculated to throw its most valuable trade into rival hands, and build up our neighbors at our expense.

Mr. Tweed, of Taunton, replied in defence of the bill, and Mr. Woodbury, of Acton, "the enemy of all State loans," followed in opposition to this measure, till the Speaker's hammer announced that the time for taking the vote had arrived, and the motion of Mr. Bemis, of Watertown, for the indefinite postponement of the bill, prevailed without a count. The Boston delegation, with a few exceptions, and the whole railway interests of the Vermont roads, with S. S. Lewis, the agent of the Cunard steamers, were busy in canvassing for votes during the discussion.

Had the Boston influence been in favor of the bill, its passage would not have awakened anything like a formidable opposition in the House. But the friends of the measure yielded assent to the correctness of the conclusion of Mr. Kellogg, of Pittsfield. The friends of the bill thought that Boston was to derive great advantages from the construction of this road, but if Boston viewed the matter differently the State should respect her wishes.

For years past an alleged jealousy and hostility toward Maine has been charged upon Boston, and denied by many of her people. It was fully admitted on the floor of the House on Monday, and the bill, to aid the construction of the European and North American Railway was rejected through Boston influence, on the express ground that the construction of the lines of railway proposed by Maine, connecting Portland with Montreal and with Halifax threatened a withdrawal of the Cunard steamers, and the most alarming consequences to the future growth and prosperity of Boston.

[Portland Advertiser.

We give below the remonstrance referred to, and the names of the remonstrants:

To the Honorable, the Senate and House of Representatives in General Court, Assembled.

The undersigned, merchants of Boston, respectfully remonstrate against the proposed loan of State Bonds, or credit of the State, for the sum of $500,000, in aid of constructing the "European and North American Railroad," through the State of Maine, to Halifax, N. S. for the following, among other reasons:

First: Because it will be a State loan in the aid of a foreign corporation over which the Legislature will have no control, and thus will establish a dangerous precedent.

Secondly: Because, if the objects contemplated in constructing said road are accomplished it will prove greatly injurious to the commerce and trade of Boston, and the Commonwealth; inasmuch as it is intended thereby to make Halifax the point of arrival and departure for steamers and other vessels and to transship their cargoes and passengers for Boston, and the Canadas, at that port.

Thirdly: Because Boston and Massachusetts has already invested some $10,000,000 in railroads extending from the sea-board to the Canadas, and by the construction of the proposed road, travel and freight to and from the Canadas will be diverted from those roads, to the Portland and Montreal Railroad, and it is therefore the policy of the State to encourage trade through the established channels, instead of building up a foreign port, and encouraging transportation over a road through any other State in competition with, and to the injury of our own lines.

Fourthly: Because the establishment of the proposed road will facilitate the introduction of foreign immigrants into this State, via Halifax, without offering the present means of controlling and regulating such immigration, and protecting the State from foreign pauperism.

WHIG NOMINATION

FOR CONGRESS

ISRAEL WASHBURN, Jr.

Whig Convention.

The Whig Convention in the Fifth Congressional District assembled at Dover, on Thursday last. The convention was large and respectable, and characterized by great harmony and by a disposition to do ample justice to the whig cause and the whig candidates and to approve and honor the course of their present able, faithful, Representative in Congress, Hon. Israel Washburn, Jr., whose course in Congress has won for him the approbation of all his political friends, and even the commendation of very many influential men, among his political opponents. His position is a commanding one and is what he has sustained himself in a manner to justify the highest hopes of his most ardent and enthusiastic friends. His re-election would fully vindicate the good sense of the people of this district, and would be conferring an advantage upon the State, for whose welfare he has so energetically and faithfully labored. We place his name at the head of our columns as the nominee of the whigs at this district in the fullest confidence that in September next he will receive from them a large vote, and we trust that we may yet have the pleasure of announcing that he has been triumphantly re-elected.

It seems to have been understood that the Delegate to the Baltimore Convention should be from Piscataquis County, and a request was made to the Convention to this effect by Nathaniel Chamberlain, Esq. of Foxcroft, the Chairman of the Whig Committee of that County, who was present at the Convention. No special action was taken upon the subject by the Convention, as on balloting it was found that from the absence of portion of the delegates from Penobscot preferred voting for a candidate for Judge from this county.

The business of the Convention was conducted with harmony and with commendable speed, the President of the Convention, J. S. Holmes, Esq. of Foxcroft, discharged his duty as presiding officer acceptably and with an aim to facilitate the progress of business for the accommodation of delegates from a distance and who wished to return home that day.

The Convention closed in harmony and with three cheers for Gen. Winfield Scott.

☞ The Boston Advertiser after canvassing the subject of the probable result of the balloting in the Baltimore Convention, gives an opinion that the chances are quite favorable for Mr. Webster, after the first ballot; the Advertiser quotes with satisfaction the remark of another that in case Mr. Webster should receive the nomination, he will receive the united support of the Whig party. We differ in opinion with the Advertiser as to the probable result of the vote, as it seems to us, pretty clear, though not absolutely certain, that Gen. Scott will be nominated. Should he not be nominated he will doubtless receive a larger vote than any other candidate unless it shall unfortunately be attempted to erect for him a platform, to meet the public sentiment of to-day, if there is such a thing, and we do not state that there is no absolute necessity of so doing, then his prospects will be almost certain. We cannot suppose that the whigs are so madly demented, as to be giving a hearty and earnest support to any candidate which may be nominated at the Baltimore Convention, but we rather confidently expect that they will sink their personal preferences in the success of the cause. It is the most shameful to throw away a positive victory, on so small a matter as a personal preference for such. The whigs of Maine will prefer Gen. Scott, and can secure for him a larger vote in Maine, than for any other man, and, perhaps, carry the State for him, but even then the whig cause more important than his elevation to the distinguished office.

☞ We return our thanks to Hon. Wm. H. Seward and Hon. Hannibal Hamlin, of the U. S. Senate and to Hon. Isreal Washburn, Jr. of the House, for public documents they have sent to us.

☞ Wm. Boynton, who was boonton trial for burning the Messrs Jackson Place, Roxbury, has been acquitted. The verdict of the jury seems to have met the public sentiment of Boston people.

☞ The city of Boston has taken the members of the Methodist General Conference, now in session in that city on a very pleasant excursion down the harbor in a steamboat. About five hundred accepted the invitation and the party gratified at the compliment and the general appearance of the harbor.

☞ Mr Thrasher will shortly visit his friends in this State and then proceed on Washington to call the attention of the Administration to the necessity of more adequate protection of American citizens in Cuba.

☞ Private letters from New Orleans intimate that the Tehuantepec Ship Canal will soon be commenced.

☞ The Liquor Bill has passed the Senate of Massachusetts by a majority of one vote. Its approval by the Governor is considered as doubtful.

Later from Mexico.

NEW YORK, May 19.

Dates from New Mexico to May 8th, have been received at St. Louis. The statements of mineral wealth of the Rio Gila have been disapproved by a personal examination of the localities.

Governor Calhoun has ordered all the prisoners in Santa Fe country to be discharged for the want of funds to maintain them in prison.

The people of Santa Fe were much excited by apprehensions of insurrectionary movements and it was said a mine had been sprung for an attack on the exchange. Military preparation had been made to meet the emergency.

BALTIMORE, 20th. The Maryland Whig State Convention met to-day. There is a full attendance and much harmony prevails. Resolutions were passed in favor of the Compromise measures, endorsing the administration of Millard Fillmore, and declaring his administration entitled to the confidence of the whigs of the Union. Speeches pledging the support of the whigs of Maryland to any nominee of the Baltimore Convention, were made by Governor Pratt, Reverdy Johnson, Severn Teackle Wallis, Thomas Swann, and others.

Democratic Wantonness or Cowardice.

The Democratic Review, a partisan periodical, in its late issue proclaims adhesion in its last number with almost the very encouraging to all who would have law unto themselves, and would abolish all other law that interferes with their individual development. Speaking of the Maine Law it says that "the only definition of freedom which does not define away all meaning is, the absence of restraint," and that "the only criterion for knowing how far a government is free is the extent to which bad actions are allowed," and that "civil liberty may be termed the constitutional right to do wrong;" and that "the freedom of the press is the power to publish wicked and pernicious doctrines, and the freedom of speech the power to speak foolishly;" and that "religious freedom is the power to follow a false worship; freedom of locomotion, the power to go to the wrong place; freedom of occupation the power to choose the wrong trade; and that "the right to do wrong, in all these and as many other respects as possible, is this essential condition of all true development, real happiness, and healthful progress."

The National Intelligencer copies the above from an exchange, and in the course of its comments says:

"We will not attempt to describe the horrible anarchy that must ensue where every one does "whatsoever is right in his own eyes."—The end must be despotism, for man, harassed by continual outrages and alarms, will seek the chance of repose under the law of a tyrant's will, rather than trust the desperate caprice of a lawless mob."

The present condition of France is a striking illustration of the truth of the above. It is the dread of socialism that keeps Europe despotic.

JENNY LIND GOLDSCHMIDT.—The demonstrative character and benevolent heart of Jenny Lind Goldschmidt, was exemplified in a recent incident in this town, a short time prior to her departure for New York. In passing the premises of a farmer, in one of our afternoon promenades, she noticed a yard of nice cows. Wending her way into the back part of the house, she gently tapped at the door, and on gaining admittance alluded to the cows, and asked the favor of a cup of milk, which of course was most cheerfully furnished. Noticing that the family appeared in a state bordering on distress of mind, she inquired the cause, and was informed that they had just heard of the death of a brother in California. She asked if he had a mother, and on being informed that he had, desired to see her. She was shown into the mother's room, where she sat down and talked with her for some time, sympathizing with her in her affliction, and administering words of consolation to the bereaved parent. She then came out and talked with the family, and promised to call again. On a subsequent afternoon she redeemed her promise, and spent another half hour in sympathizing with the afflicted mother. While there she was informed that a person in the immediate neighborhood, who had been confined to a sick bed for nine months, desired to see her. She cheerfully responded to the request, and spent half an hour in comforting the bed-ridden patient.

During her whole stay at Northampton, she rather avoided the society of the upper ten, that we may so speak, and sought out the humble and the distressed. She frequently inquired out the sick, that she might visit them.

[Hampshire Gazette.

EVERGREENS IN MAINE.

Most of the resinous evergreens can be cultivated in Maine, successfully, and many of the most beautiful of them are natives of the State. Three varieties of Pines,—the White Pine, the Norway, and the Pitch Pine,—are found within one hundred miles of Boston, and grow to great perfection, and yet we seldom see any of them set out as ornamental trees. Then we have the Hemlock, very extensively spread all over the State, and a tree of which great use is made in the bark for tanning, its wood for fuel, for timber and boards, but who takes pains to honor it with removal to any pleasure ground or with a situation where it will serve as an ornamental tree, as well as shelter? Objections are sometimes made to this tree because, in the forest, where it grows spontaneously, when it becomes of full size its branches often become ragged, as they call it, and present a naked and distorted appearance. Mr. Downing in his January number of the Horticulturist, has some remarks upon this tree, and meets the objections mentioned above in this manner:—

"Have you ever seen the hemlock planted in the midst of a smooth lawn? the soil a deep loam, and the site favorable? No. Then you have yet to discover how full of symmetry, how nobly proportioned, how graceful, how rich and dark a green in winter, how pure and soft a green in spring, is the hemlock. In fact, it is a handsome as the Deodar, and is very much like it. The latter drops more, and is silvery on its foliage, instead of bronzy—but they are much alike otherwise, and are the best possible companions in the Pleasure ground."

Here we would stop to enquire if any one in Maine has ever tried the "Deodar Cedar" as it is called, long enough to ascertain how it stands our climate? It is found native on the Nepaul Mountains in Tartary, grows high toward the summit of these great elevations, and in a "deep snow coal" region. It is said to flourish well in the climate of Scotland, and no doubt would flourish well in Maine if properly set out and taken care of. It is of the same genus as the Cedar of Lebanon or sacred cedar, which we read of in the Scriptures and which as the inspired writer says directly, but very happily, described by one of the prophets: "Behold, the Assyrian was a cedar in Lebanon with fair branches and with a shadowing shroud, and of a high stature; and his top was among the thick boughs. His boughs were multiplied, and his branches became long. The fir trees were not like his boughs, nor the chesnut trees like his branches: nor any tree in the garden of God was like unto him in beauty." Ez. xxxi.

The arbor vitæ, or what is more commonly known among us as the cedar, is a beautiful evergreen when planted in groups and rendered compact by pinching the tips of the branches. It also forms a beautiful hedge, presenting when properly trained a dense compact wall of living green during the whole year; but when suffered to stand alone, it does not present a very magnificent appearance.

The silver fir, balsam fir, as it is sometimes called, is more in demand among us than any of our evergreens, and indeed is almost the only one that is removed from its native site and planted as an ornamental tree. Its regular pyramidal form, and dense mass of short, bright, evergreen leaves from a pleasing contrast when grouped with other trees, and give an agreeable variety to the landscape where they are found.

A variety of this fir, which is a native of Norway, called the Norway Fir, or Norway Spruce, is coming into demand quite extensively for an ornamental evergreen and a shelter or screen. It grows somewhat different in shape from our silver fir,—its general form is pyramidal, with branches lower down, and makes a more close protection when planted closely than our native fir does.

In addition to these, the common double spruce, called oftentimes the black spruce, and the single spruce, are but very seldom transplanted, and yet they make a very beautiful addition to the group of evergreens when cultivated. All of our native evergreens are entitled to more consideration as ornamental trees than they have yet received among us, and where screens or protection is wanted against the cold northerly or easterly winds, nothing can be found better than a collection of them closely planted. They will form a complete barrier against the storms and cutting winds, and a good protection to shrubs and half hardy trees which are often winter killed in the open air.

The Liquor Bill.

BOSTON, May 21.

The Senate refused to concur in the House amendment, striking out reference to people.

The Senate and House passed to be enacted, the Liquor Bill without the clause refering to the people.

CONGRESS.

WASHINGTON, 19.

In the Senate—The Chair presented from the Secretary of War a answer to the resolution relative to the extra compensation paid officers in New Mexico during the war.

A large number of petitions were presented and appropriately referred.

Mr. Gwin of California, asked for the discharge of the Military Committee from any further consideration of the report of the Secretary of the Navy, on the loss of the steamer Edith. It was agreed to.

Mr. Welch reported back to the Senate, with amendments, a bill granting land for a railroad from San Francisco to San Jose. Mr. Gwin asked for the immediate consideration of the subject, to which the Senate agreed and the amendments proposed to the bill were adopted. The bill was then passed to be engrossed.

On motion of Mr. Hamlin, the bill in favor of locating ports of entry and delivery in Puget's Sound and the Cinique River, Oregon was taken up. The amendments regulating the salaries of Collectors, &c., were adopted, and the bill ordered to be engrossed.

The Committee on the Judiciary were discharged from the further consideration of the memorial from Pennsylvania, asking for a law to prevent the immigration of felons to this country. The amendment appropriating $25,000 to indemnify citizens of Georgia and Alabama for losses sustained in the Creek war was rejected.

The special order of the day, being the Deficiency bill, was then announced.

Mr. Hunter asked the unanimous consent to pass over the amendment granting aid to the Colins line in order to allow Mr. Cass to speak on the subject.

Mr. Seward opposed the motion.

Mr. Borland said he should inflict another speech on the Senate, if the motion was insisted on.

Mr. Seward then withdrew his opposition.

Mr. Cass then took the floor, and spoke against Mr. Bell's amendment.

Messrs. Bell and Dawson, said that though opposed to the amendment as it now stands, they should nevertheless vote for it, in order to keep it before the Senate, with a view to further amendment when the bill shall be reported from the Committee of the Whole. The amendment was then agreed to—yeas 28, nays 21—after which the Senate adjourned.

In the House.—After the usual opening business, the House on motion of Mr. Sibley, went into Committee of the Whole and resumed the consideration of the bill authorizing the Governor of New Mexico to call in extra session of the Legislature if necessary.

Mr. Gray briefly advocated the bill, and then proceeded to review and answer the manifesto of the seceding members of the late Whig caucus. Mr. Gray, in the course of his remarks, said the manifesto issued by the seceding Whigs would, in the hands of the Democrats of Kentucky, be the means of prostrating the Compromise Whigs in that State forever. He also replied at length to his colleague, Mr. Marshall, contending that he was not a true representative of Whig principles.

Mr. Richardson of Illinois, also advocated the bill, after which it was laid aside to be reported to the House.

The bill for the construction of military roads in Oregon, was next taken up, when Mr. Floyd of New York, read a speech reviewing the Compromise measures, and declaring that on the subject of slavery the people of the north generally have but one note, and that was the personal freedom of man. As to the Presidency, he said if the Democracy incorporate the approval of the Compromise measures as a test issue cruel, it will meet with disaster and defeat.

The Committee then rose, and after passing the bill authorizing an extra session of the Legislature of New Mexico, the House adjourned.

The Texas Treasury have paid off $600,000 of the State debt in these bonds.

COOKING STOVE
THE best Cook Stove ever introduced to this or any other public.
Having secured the sole agency of this very desirable Stove, I take great pleasure in offering it to my customers and the public. This Stove was invented expressly for this eastern market, by three experienced and expert Stove manufacturers. Messrs. Easter & Whiting, who know, and have applied to the wants of this enlightened people. It is now offered to the public with the fullest confidence in its merits, and its superiority over every other Cooking apparatus ever introduced. Its convenience for Boiling, Broiling, Frying, &c., are not surpassed, and its extensive and beautiful Oven for Baking and Roasting, will at once recommend it to the Ladies. One very important feature is, it has very few joints and smooth castings, and being manufactured in this city, can at all times be repaired, if ever necessary, at a trifling expense without subjecting one to waiting customers to be ordered from New York, Rhode Island, or elsewhere. Every Stove is warranted one year, and if not giving entire satisfaction may be returned and the money will be refunded after 30 days trial.
—ALSO—
A great variety of other patterns of cooking Stoves, such as the
Our State, Bay State, Empire State, Granite State, State of Maine, &c.,
All or any of which will be sold at extremely low prices.
Elevated Oven Stoves—Hampden 3 and 4 Boiler and two Oven—Bostonian two oven Stoves, Forrest-Queen &c.—and also a very beautiful pattern of Cottage Parlor Cook Stove, and a fact every variety of Stove for Cooking or warming, worthy of notice, can be found at the Central Street Stove and Furnace Depot, No 13, 17 and 19.
